

THE CANADIAN ENERGY LAW FOUNDATION
2021 JASPER RESEARCH SEMINAR
CALL FOR PAPERS

The 2021 Jasper Research Seminar – the Foundation’s 60th Annual – will be held June 16th to June 19th, 2021 at the Jasper Park Lodge. Academic scholarship and practical value to energy practitioners are the hallmarks of the papers presented at the Seminar. Presenting a paper allows you and your organization to share and exchange knowledge and ideas with others in the legal profession and business community. It is an excellent opportunity to invoke discussion, debate and new ways of thinking about the current issues facing our organizations, clients and other stakeholders, while engaging with peers in the Canadian energy bar.

Please consider submitting a proposal for a paper that focuses on relevant or topical issues of interest to energy law practitioners, such as emerging trends or looming challenges in energy development and transactions, ownership, jurisdictional or regulatory issues, aboriginal rights, environmental matters (including climate change and water rights), decommissioning and abandonment and reclamation obligations, cross-border issues or deal structuring. Paper topics can be of a general nature or address more specific issues facing energy law practitioners. In addition, the Seminar will include two update papers – one covering recent judicial decisions and the other covering legislative and regulatory developments. We encourage joint proposals from firms, regulators, corporations and other stakeholders, as well as creative and dynamic presentation formats, including panel discussions, to facilitate increased engagement and participation among Seminar participants.

We are interested in submissions for papers covering not just oil and gas law, but those relating to power, energy utilities and infrastructure, and renewable and alternative energy.

In addition to submitting a paper proposal (see Part I of the Call for Papers Form), you may simply respond by submitting a list of topics that you would be interested in seeing included in the Jasper 2021 program (see Part II of the Call for Papers Form).

The deadline for submitting your reply to this Call for Papers is December 31, 2020. Topics will be selected on or before January 15, 2021 and notification of the selected proposals will be made shortly after that date. Papers must be completed and delivered by March 26, 2021 for a preliminary review by the CELF and inclusion in the Seminar materials.

Please provide your submission to either of the following Papers Co-Chairs:
